At Anderson it commenced raining at 1 o'clock.

At Gilroy a slight shower fell in the morning. The weather is cloudy, and there are fair prospects for further rain, which would be welcomed by the farmers. At Visalia light showers of rain fell early in the morning. At Nevada a gentle rain set in about 1 o'clock this afternoon, and promises to continue during the night. At Shasta a warm, steady rain has been falling all day, and is still pouring down this evening. A Careless Engineer.

BENSON, March 17.—A startling statement has been made in connection with the supposed accidental killing of Tom Martin by a falling cage in the Silver Thread mine, near Tombstone a few days ago. In his last moments deceased made a statement to the effect that the falling of the cage was not accidental, but was let fall by Engineer Leggett in order to kill him. Before the coroner's jury yesterday Leggett testified that the accident was caused by the failure of the brake to work. The coroner's verdict finds that the accident was caused by the carelessness of the engineer in charge at the time of the accident.

Patton, of Los Angeles, asking that he hold Fred Peterson, who was arrested by Detectives Bee and Harper last Monday night with a lot of broken jewelry, together with a pair of pearl opera-glasses in his possession. Peterson could not explain in a satisfactory manner how he got the jewelry and he was held on suspicion. The District Attorney of Los Angeles is confident that Peterson stole the jewelry from his residence several weeks ago. Peterson was booked as en route to Los Angeles and will probably be taken to that city tomorrow to answer the charge of burglarizing District Attorney Patton's house.

In the President's letter he alludes to the fact of its being the 103rd anniversary of the society, and said that this indication of age of the organization induced the reflection that it is to be perpetuated.

Eastern Visitors to Stockton.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 17.—There has been a large influx of eastern visitors to this city during the past few days, most of them coming by way of Los Angeles. They express surprise at the soil and climate of this section. The question of the erection of a large hotel, and all that goes with it, is being agitated by capitalists. The necessity of such a building is obvious, in view of the increase of travel through this city.

A GIGANTIC SWINDLER GONE.

Kentucky Vigilantes Killed for Cruelly Whipping a Seventy-Year-Old Woman.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald. PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—Captain Newell, of the steamer British Prince, from Liverpool, makes the following report: "On Monday, the 14th, at 9:15 A. M., in latitude 40° 1', longitude 64° 12', a strong breeze, and all canvas set. Every stitch of canvas was being used on both boats. There was, at the time the yachts were sighted, a strong breeze blowing from west to northwest. The yachts were about twenty-two miles apart. This would indicate that they are taking a more southerly course than that pursued by transatlantic steamships at this season. When the observed was taken the Coronet had made about 600 geographical miles, and the Dauntless about 589 miles. Though the Coronet was eleven miles further to the eastward, she was, on account of her more northerly position, more than thirty miles in advance of the Dauntless.

ONE MILLION SHORT.

Swindler Lawton, After Beating Everyone, Disappears.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The place of business of Walter E. Lawton, 31 Broadway, who did business under the firm name of Lawton Bros., in fertilizers, was seized under three attachments from the Supreme Court, on creditors' claims against them amounting to $245,000. Lawton was a director in the Delta Azotin Company, and was entrusted with $100,000 in notes to discount for the company on March 5th. Lawton is said to have absconded with the proceeds of the discounted notes. On Tuesday afternoon a number of the banks were reported to be heavy losers through the negotiation of Lawton's papers. Just before leaving the city Lawton drew from the Third National Bank, on checks, $15,000. The amount of his liabilities is estimated at about $1,000,000. Lawton is a widower and is the sole representative of the firm, his brother, who was associated with him, having died some time ago. Rufus T. Kirkland, Lawton's cashier, states that Tuesday Lawton withdrew all his funds from the different banks in which he had deposits, and took the money with him. Lawton, before his departure, destroyed all checks, stubs and papers of every kind from which any information could be secured as to the disposition of the funds and property. Kirkland said Lawton told him he intended to leave the city by train; that he had drawn out all his money on deposit; that he was ruined; that he did not know what to do, and that he would probably commit suicide. Lawton further said that he had exhausted his resources and was not able to pay out any money in his possession. He left Kirkland to take a train.

The associates of Lawton look upon his disappearance as the work of a gigantic swindler operation. The book-keeper of the firm is reported to have lost all he is worth in the world. One man who is a heavy loser said that Lawton had overdrawn all his accounts; he got all the money on his paper that he could; had said his house had converted all his property into cash, and then left for England yesterday on his way to his brother, who lives in Sussex. The amount involved by his operations is placed by everybody at over $1,000,000.

Lawton negotiated his paper through the note brokerage firm of Tins, Mead & Co., 51 Wall street, who have out not less than $100,000 of Lawton's endorsements. Mead said Lawton was in his office on Tuesday afternoon and took some of his papers with him, promising to send Mead a check for $10,000 on Wednesday morning. The check did not come and inquiries for Lawton developed the fact that he was missing. Mead said the total of Lawton's liabilities or defections might be $300,000. The cashier of the Third National bank said it was between $300,000 or $400,000. At the bank it was said that Lawton had raised money wherever he could and gone off. Kling, an attorney, estimated that Lawton got at least two hundred thousand dollars in cash from the banks and on discounted paper on the day of his departure. He took money away with him. He also may have had a good deal left of the proceeds of claims. Mr. Kling represents $350,000. It is known that he has obtained at least $250,000 on notes from various banks. Nobody could give any intelligent statement about Lawton's financial condition as a whole. No examination has yet been made of the assets, if any there be, and though attachments have been served on everything visible, including his Jersey real estate and the Spuyten Duyvel residence, it is commonly believed that he has transferred his interest in all such property. His liabilities too far exceed his assets, that not yet collected in any statement, are estimated at about $1,000,000, rather less than more.

Grand Encampment G. A. R.

ST. LOUIS, March 17.—The general committee having in charge the arrangements for the meeting of the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic in this city, next September, have through a sub-committee, composed of the Mayor of the city, the President of the Merchants' Exchange and one of the leading representatives of the local Grand Army of the Republic posts, extended a very cordial invitation to President Cleveland and his wife to be present and share the festivities of the occasion.

Talked to Moses.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Moses Solomon was to-day discharged from his connection with the defense of the anarchists by the committee having the case of the condemned men in charge. The reason given by the committee for the attorney's discharge is his laxness in attention. He insisted on making a speech before the Supreme Court at Ottawa, in spite of the protests of his associates.

WELL SERVED.

Three Cruel-Hearted Men Killed for an Atrocious Act.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 17.—A Courier-Journal special from Crab Orchard, Ky., gives particulars of the killing of three vigilantes, whilst administering a whipping to a woman 70 years of age, in Rock Castle county. The woman, Eliza Fish, persisted in selling liquor after she had been warned anonymously to stop it. She kept a low kind of a store and grogery. The county is a prohibition one. Last night the vigilantes, or Law and Order Club, waited on Mrs. Fish. They took her out in the yard and were whipping her when shots were fired from over the fence and three of the Ku-Klux were left dead. Their names are John Long, Walter Turpin and John Hasty. There is no clerk as to who did the shooting. Rock Castle county has been infested by a band of Ku-Klux for ten years past. All efforts to break up lawlessness have failed. The old woman, Eliza Fish, has been whipped before by vigilantes, and her son was run out of the county for selling liquor.

THE B. & O. DEAL.

Rumors and Gossip Still Pursue Their Tenor.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Herald says: "It is not official but was described as nearly so, that the papers in the Baltimore and Ohio deal received their final signature yesterday. One of the gentlemen named is John W. Mackay, now in San Francisco, but all day yesterday he was said to be in communication by wire with Mr. Bully, through Edward H. Stokes, President of the United Lines Telegraph Company. The terms given are these: Mackay is to pay $2,000,000. Bully and associates are to pay $2,000,000, and $10,000,000 is to be paid for trust bonds secured by 80,000 shares of stock to be delivered by Mr. Garrett, to give control of the property of the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph to be consolidated with that of all companies, barring the Western Union."

A report was circulated this forenoon that the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton party, represented by Messrs. Ives, Stayner and Meyer, had paid $500,000 to the London and North Western Railway company, to express any opinion whatever. One of the parties prominent in the negotiations for the Stayner crowd said that they had made arrangements to take a share in a syndicate of railroad representations and had put in their first allotment of cash.

COLD-BLOODED MURDER.

A Texas Laborer Kills Three Men Without Cause.

GALVESTON, March 17.—A special from San Antonio to the News, says: A triple murder was committed yesterday afternoon at the railroad camp of the northwestern extension of the San Antonio and Aransas Pass road, fourteen miles beyond Boerne. Henry Madison, a well-known stock man and contractor of this city, employed a number of men and teams. One of his laborers, named Wallace Stone, went to Madison and asked him for some money and was told he could not get any until Saturday. Stone became enraged and said he would have either money or blood, and without further provocation pulled a revolver and fired, killing Madison instantly. Two Mexicans in the camp who had witnessed the shooting ran out and attempted to arrest the murderer. A Blockade Raised.

VICTORIA, B. C., March 17.—The Canadian Pacific blockade is raised. The western bound train arrived at Port Moody to-night. This is the first through mail since February 22d.

A Presidential Possibility.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the possibility of a Presidential election now asserting themselves in politics, the transfer of the next Presidential election to the House is not an impossible event; and the failure of the Republicans to hold the one district that was the key to the solution of a Presidential battle in the House in their favor, and that district is a State that never before defeated a Republican candidate for Congress, is a most significant lesson on the political currents of New England. The steady decline of the Republican vote in the New England States, excepting only Vermont, shows a steady drift towards new political domination, and when Rhode Island and New Hampshire are divided in their Congressional delegations, the next answer roll-call on a contest for the Presidency will be a means much in the line of political independence. FOREIGN.

The Grand Old Man's Talk.

Nihilism Rampant Again.

The Conspiracy to Kill the Czar Including All Classes in the Empire.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Herald. LONDON, March 17.—Gladstone delivered a speech at a dinner to-night, given by the Yorkshire members of the House of Commons. He began by referring to his belief that it was the growing opinion to favor Home Rule, even among its former opponents. He counselled Lord Salisbury to awaken from his sleep if he wished to banish his nightmare. The Premier, however, said Gladstone appeared determined to remain asleep. Gladstone maintained that it was impossible to deal with any other questions until the Irish question was cleared out of the way. He said: "I wish to say a word regarding what I conceive to be my obligations toward the different parties and sections with which I have to deal. In starting we are agreed that Ireland asks an effective self-government in affairs of property exclusively Irish, subject to an unquestionable supremacy of the Imperial Parliament. Should the extend her demands beyond this limit, I frankly tell you that I could no longer promote her cause, but as long as the demands she utters are just and within the bounds of moderation, I will stand fast to her cause during what remains to me of political life. (Cheers.) It is our duty to acknowledge whatever approaches the Conservatives make toward a recognition of the real state of facts and prospects before us. Major Sanderson recently said that the settlement of the Irish question must emanate from the Irish people. That statement is eminently satisfactory. It approves even in the minds of extreme men there a movement in the right direction. We should leave an open way for the Conservatives to pursue a right policy in this matter. I hoped that they would deal liberally with Ireland, but they missed their chance when they had it. I know they receive our suggestions of assistance as insults. They ought to receive our well meant offers to assist them against the refractory members of their party with patience and tolerance. Referring to the defeat of his measure in Parliament, Gladstone said: As regards the main proposals we had in view, it is futile talk of reversion, but in regard to those improvements it will be our reasonable duty to seek them. I cherish the hope that there are a variety of points on which improvement might be made on the proposals we submitted to Parliament. These points will multiply as we draw nearer to the subject, and I still think, when we can be in a condition to give any practical effect to our political views. One point which helped our fight specially, and caused difficulty amongst our best friends, was the proposal to use the Imperial credit to levy out the Irish landlords. Well! let me say this: I have the firmest convictions that we never proposed to risk a six-pence, but that does not decide the case. My duty is to consider whether the proposal is essential to any sound plan for Ireland. I at once tell you this, and make the confession that in our proposal on behalf of the Irish landlords we went to the furthest point in their behalf, and upon two grounds: partly because we knew they had been the poorest children of England, who now, as it were, is turning upon them in some degree, and partly because we wished to give our opponents every inducement for a great and speedy settlement of the question. I cherish the hope that it will be perfectly possible to devise a plan for the safe purchase of estates in Ireland.

CAUGHT IN 'FRISCO.

The Burglar of District Attorney Patton's House Caught.

On the 8th instant District Attorney Patton's house was burglarized while he was away from home, and over $1500 in jewelry and silverware disappeared. The different officers of the law in this and other counties of the State were notified of the fact and a list of the stolen property was forwarded with the notifications. Shortly afterward a Chinaman who worked on the premises was arrested, but the evidence that he had taken any part in the burglary was not forthcoming and he was discharged from custody. Since then the local police and detective force of this city have been busily engaged in working on the case but without success, although it was thought that the burglar would not get very far away with so large an amount of booty. A telegram was received from San Francisco last night stating that District Attorney Patton had telegraphed to San Francisco to hold a man named Fred Peterson who had been arrested while trying to dispose of a lot of stolen jewelry for which he could not account. The prisoner will arrive in Los Angeles to-morrow morning and will be examined shortly afterward.

THEATRICAL.

Miss Clara Morris Appears in Artistic Dress.

There was another fine audience at the Opera House last night to witness Miss Morris as "Corra" in the drama of Article 47. We are so pressed for room in this issue that we cannot give as full a review of the performance as we could wish. The piece is a very powerful presentation of the strongest passions that can actuate the human breast—love and revenge. In the last act Miss Morris gave full play to her powers. Struggling between the emotions of love and revenge, she gradually works herself into a paroxysm that results in madness. The strain upon the audience during this long and trying scene, was intense, for it was evident that the actress was making her presentation so realistic as to tax to exhaustion her nervous powers, and finally, when the acme of the scene was reached by an outbreak which ended in death, and the curtain fell, there was a feeling of relief.

An Unprovoked Assault.

Shortly after noon yesterday two individuals, named Fred, George Curtis and Frank Smith, made an unprovoked assault upon Professor Savarie, a harmless fanatic who wanders about the streets of Los Angeles playing upon a few fiddle covered with tinfoil. It appeared that the Professor was behaving himself quietly on First street and Curtis and Smith jumped upon him, one taking his caricature of a violin and the other hitting him several severe blows in the face, blackening his eye and otherwise disfiguring him. Officer Fowler appeared on the scene at this juncture and arrested both assailants, and charged them at the city prison with fighting. Mayor Workman met Curtis and Smith, $10. The Professor, one of the most brave fellows that the Herald has ever been called upon to chronicle, and it is only to be regretted that the assailants, who wore the clothes of gentlemen, and exhibited the manners of hoodlums, were not sent to jail for twenty days.

Flower Festival Society.

A public meeting will be held at the new home on Fourth street, near Main, on Friday, March 18th, at 2 P. M., to consider the work of the coming festival. All persons interested to aid during the festival are requested to make their good will known at that meeting. As a great quantity of green will be needed for the decoration of the booths and the hall, it is earnestly hoped that all who can will delay the trimming of their hedges, trees and plants, cypress, pepper, bananas, palms, alives (cutury plant), etc., until the first week of April, to turn the cuttings to the advantage of the festival, which will open on Tuesday, April 12th. The names of the deliver such cuttings will be notified in ample time, through the papers, as to the place of exhibition. Those who cannot will please notify Mrs. R. M. Widney, 310 South Olive street, or Mrs. F. C. Powers, Los Angeles National Bank, giving exact address at which the cuttings can be found. M. M. FETTER, Rec. Sec. F. F. S.

Mirror of Ireland.

The panorama Mirror of Ireland, drew a large audience at Armory Hall last night. The pictures introduced were very interesting, representing, as they did, bits of scenery of that island, and historical parts of towns and portions that are enshrined in the heart of every true Irishman. Between the pictures were introduced some very clever bits of acting, and a number of songs by Dan and Mrs. Josie Sullivan. These sketches introduced "Barney, the Comical Guide," "Nora, the Little Emerald," "The Dutch Traveler," "Muldoon, the Solid Man," "Marshall Pat," "The Irish Dug," and "Maloney, the Fortune Teller." All of the impersonations were heartily enjoyed, and many of the pictures were vigorously applauded. The performance will be repeated to-night, at Armory Hall, and at the matinee to-morrow as well as in the evening.

Safe at Last.

More than sixty days ago the brig Tanner, belonging to the Perry-Mott Lumber Company, sailed from San Pedro for the great yards and mills of the company on the northern coast of this State, and after weary days and weeks had passed with no tidings of the missing vessel, she was given up for lost, but on Tuesday the gallant craft, crippled and short of provisions, made her port. The trip was long, stormy, and severely tested the knowledge and nerve of the gallant captain and crew. All friends of the storm-tossed mariners will rejoice in their safety.

Two Inquests.

An inquest was held yesterday afternoon on the body of Mary L. Dickson, before Coroner J. M. Meredith. Mrs. Dickson was found dead in her bed on Wednesday night, by John White, and after the examination of witnesses, the jury found that she had come to her death from natural causes. An inquest was also held on the body of B. W. Sullivan, who was reported to be dying on Wednesday night. The cause of death in this instance was found to be congestion of the brain, superinduced by excessive drinking.

Hod-Carriers' Union No. 1 gave a very pleasant dance at Turnverein Hall last night.

Rev. Dr. Schreiber will lecture this evening at 7:30 in the Synagogue. Subject, "Holy Land, the Holy Field."

The city was distracted today and physicians and their rounds vacanating all who had not heretofore undergone the operation.

The sale of tickets for the Pyke Opera Company will commence to-day. The first opera will be Prince Methusalem.
This season of opera will be a treat to our people.

The auction sale of lots at San Bernardino yesterday was a grand success.
Ben E. Ward telegraphs that seventy lots were sold and over $20,000 realized.
Everybody who went on the excursion
had a delightful time.

Mr. J. R. Dupuy states that he is not an applicant for the position of United States District Attorney. When he accepted the appointment of Assistant District Attorney for Los Angeles county he withdrew his application and recommendation for the United States Attorneyship from the Department of Justice at Washington.

Real estate matters were very lively yesterday, as the following summary of the day's business will show: Number of transfers, 45; total amount of consideration, $360,177; number of transfers under $1000 each, 51; total amount of consideration, $15,000; transfers for nominal consideration, 10; aggregate of day's

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Workman held his last session of the City Court and pronounced his last sentence on minor offenders. The new law goes into effect to-day and Justice Austin
will take charge of all police cases.
Until Sunday no change in time will be made, but after that date it is probable that the calendar will be called early in the morning of each day.

A flowing well has been sunk on the Alamitos rancho above the new Alamitos extension of Long Beach. A great discovery of pipe clay has been discovered on the coast, and large operations have been begun in the manufacture of glazed ware. The water is of good quality and the new settlement and the surrounding country. About one mile per week of this glazed pipe, eight inches in diameter,
is now being made.

The Express should be more careful of its statements, or people will accuse it of wilful lying. It claims that on the evening of the 21st of February it published the first news of the smallpox,
and that the other papers followed suit on the 24th. As a matter of fact that admits of no dispute, because the files of the paper show for it, the HERALD gave the smallpox situation, both editorially and locally, on the morning of the 21st of February, and the Express, with its usual good judgment, followed the lead of the HERALD.

One of the features of the Hibernian parade yesterday was a handsome open carriage, on the back seat of which reclined the mummy form of Dan Harrington, M. P. (Master of Pavements).
Daniel was arrayed in a splendid suit of brocade and a silk hat adorned his head. His appearance elicited much applause from those who witnessed the parade, but laughter was checked by the remark of a bystander who said:
"The same true heart beats in the breast of Dan Harrington under brocade as does under the woolen shirt he wears when earring for the crossings of the city, and old Dan is about as true, steadfast and honest a man as you can meet anywhere."

FINANCE AND TRADE.

A Review of the Day's Transactions.

New York, March 17.—To-day was the dullest in the stock market, so far, this year, transactions being almost entirely of a professional character and fluctuations extremely narrow. The opening was weak at a decline from last evening's figures, extending up to 3/4, though Omaha was an exception with an advance of 1/4. The market was very quiet and further declines were made in the entire trading. In the rally which followed Western Union and Richmond and West Point became conspicuous, nearly closed. There was a short period of activity and firmness in the afternoon
but it soon died away and the remainder of the day the market continued dull and featureless, the close being steady at a slight change from opening figures. Government bonds dull and rather steady.

creased somewhat this week, the market
has ruled steady with no apparent advance in price. Choice oranges are in fair demand and rule steady, while common stock is dull and easy with no demand to speak of. Receipts from Florida of oranges continue to diminish, while considerable fourth 1 year, one-fourth 18 months.

The plateau of Arlington Heights offers the most magnificent view to be beheld in Southern California, embracing the whole of the Los Angeles Valley, and extending from San Pedro and Santa Monica on the Pacific ocean, across the plains to the foothills, and up to the snowy heights of the Sierra Madre mountains. This table-land or mesa is perfectly level and unbroken, but 60 feet higher than the elevation of Spring and Main streets. To reach it there are no hills to climb, and as the streets
leading from the center of Los Angeles city up to it follow the same even grade it is as easy of access as any of the city streets.
The soil of Arlington Heights is a rich loam,
mellow and friable at all seasons, and easy to cultivate. The vineyards and orchards surrounding it give undisputed evidence that every acre of Arlington Heights will produce grapes and fruit without irrigation.
A stratum of purest well water is struck anywhere on the mesa at a depth of from thirty to sixty feet. The plateau of Arlington Heights is unequalled for health. A gentle breeze from the Pacific coast blows
daily; sea fogs never reach its elevation, and frosts being almost unknown on the mesa, "the most tender plants, such as tomato vines, bear fruit there every day of the year. The Santa Monica branch of the S. P. R. R. runs alongside this plateau, and the present terminus of the Electric Street Railroad is distant one-half mile from Arlington Heights, and it is expected that it will be extended to and through Arlington Heights.

Every city has its one fashionable suburb
par excellence; as London has its Richmond, and Paris has its Saint Cloud, Arlington Heights, by a happy combination of advantages, promises to become a fashionable addition to Los Angeles, of the beautiful mansions and park-like grounds of the wealthy.

The elegant lawns and stately mansions of the rich will be found here within a short time, and purchasers who take advantage of our low prices and easy terms will reap
a golden harvest of their investment in Arlington Heights.

RUPTURE!

TO THOSE WHO MAY DOUBT THAT
Rupture is curable, we respectfully call attention to the following facts: In the city of Los Angeles, where we have received hundreds of just such letters since our invented "Dr. Pierce's Patent Elastic Truss" has been before the public.

SALES, DENT COUNTY, Mo., Jan. 19, 1886.
Messrs. Pierce & Son, St. Louis, Mo.—Sirs:
I feel under obligations to acknowledge my complete cure of my hernia by your elastic truss bought from you in September.
Without the slightest confidence of hope of cure, I was very well content with the adjusting it. It was not able to wear it without a pad under it, however, but never experienced the slightest inconvenience since then. I have continually performed the hardest labor incidental to farming, and have been practically unconscious of either Truss or rupture. I cannot positively name the exact date when the cure was completed, but have not been aware of the rupture for more than two weeks. I have since then lifted my best wheat without wearing the truss, and have tested the cure thoroughly, and intend to wear the truss some time yet as a safeguard. You are at liberty to make use of my statements at pleasure, and may they be an inducement to many to seek and find relief through your incomparable Truss. Graciously yours,
CHARLES S. MARTEL.

Pierce's Trusses. Our Pamphlet No. 1 and supplement contain full particulars. Send

DAILY HERALD.

SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

A Bit of Gossip from the Golden Gate.

EDITOR HERALD.—There is one thing which San Francisco may well be proud of. Golden Gate park is one of the finest places of public resort any city in the land can boast of. It is of immense extent, and is being improved in a very artistic manner. Already there are miles of broad, level drives and more miles of beautiful paths for pedestrians on the property. The Lick conservatories are at this time a center of great attraction in the park. There are now in bloom beneath the glass hundreds of the most beautiful orchids, great beds of cinerarias, azalias, camellias and begonias. These flowers are all of the rarest species and are most resplendent in their wealth of blossoms. Saturday and Sunday afternoons, when the Market-street system of cable roads provides a band of nearly half a hundred pieces to disperse some dozen more or less of really choice music, the whole area around the grand stand is filled with people. The drives are thronged also with every imaginable style of vehicle. Literally thousands of people of all classes visit this beautiful resort and hear the sweet strains of music.

Just now the acacia negra and the acacia longa folia suaveolens are a mass of flowers. The former bears a long raceme of flowers of a delicate pink hue, and the other blooms in short catkins, like the brook willow, but the flowers are of the brightest golden color. The walks and drives are edged with a great profusion of these. The effect is very gay. Many varieties of beech and several specimens of the broom are in bloom. The latter is very resplendent in its yellow blossoms, somewhat like those of the "Laburnum dropping wells of fire," as Tennyson sweetly sings.

What a boon, indeed, it is to the denizens of a great city to have such a place where they may come free and enjoy all its delights. Nor is the mere pleasure of the eye all that is to be considered in such a matter. Such collections of trees are well called the lungs of a great city. There is a health as well as a pleasure to be obtained from a visit to Golden Gate Park. From all parts of San Francisco this spot can be reached at a cost of not more than a "nickel" to come, and as much to return. Thousands who live near are able to walk, and many of them through. Old, young and middle-aged mingle together, and while the millionaires drive around the roadways, the aspect of the whole people is one of unalloyed pleasure. Los Angeles could not do better than to get to work and improve her park. The property set apart for this use is ample and lies most favorable for artistic improvement. Most picturesque points are found there. This city is about to inaugurate a grand fold here in Golden Gate Park. The heaviest taxpayers in the city favor such action, and they are wisely far-seeing in this.

THE GOVERNOR'S VETOES.

Reference to this law for levying a tax for the improvement of a park recalls the Legislature and its work. Your Sacramento correspondent has kept the readers of the Herald fully informed on all that was there done. But there is a cognate matter to which I may be allowed to refer briefly. I refer to the way in which the Governor's vetoes are looked upon in this community. The view taken is generally a very unfavorable one, and the comments heard on the streets at every turn are most complimentary to Mr. Bartlett. Here the greatest interest centered in the "Stamp act," which is now almost as famous as that which led in part to the American revolution. San Francisco is the fifth important among the centers of manufacturing among the cities of our Union. The proposed law was one whose effects here would have been marked. That it passed the Legislature without its disastrous aspects being discovered is admitted here by nearly all who speak of it. That its effects would have been generally in the nature of a great hardship, all contend. Manufacturers think the law would have been ruinous to them. At the same time, while intended well, to hit the Chinese cheap labor enterprises, it was far wide of its mark, as it would not have accomplished anything in that direction. With these propositions held here generally as axiomatic, it is easy to see that the Governor has done a most popular thing in vetoing the law, and that it was to so many people. It is regarded as a thing entirely without political significance, and men of all party allegiances applauded the action of the Executive.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

The Carletons are doing a great business at the Bush. They return to Los Angeles, opening there in their re-engagement on the 4th proximo. At the same time they sing Fra Diavolo. Mr. Wm. Carleton will sing the score as written by the author, Auber, for a French baritone, whose voice was of that high register and resonant character, like Carleton's. The score is always the same, but to suit voices of lower register and less power than his.

Edwin Booth is doing a great business at the Baldwin. Each performance every seat is occupied, and the standing room in the house filled. Last night the play was Othello, with Mr. Booth as "Iago." The Herald struck just and popular keynote in its criticism of this play with the same cast as that of last night, when the great interpreter of the Bard of Avon was in your city. Mr. Barrows' "Othello" is a health patient criticism. To one who saw John McCullough play the part of the "Moor" this one is intolerable. By the way, the topmost gallery last night "caught onto" his extravagant ranting, and insisted on his coming to the front, whereupon a portion of the "judicious" below stairs vented their feelings in undisguised hisses. We shall all look forward with great interest to next winter, when Mr. Booth and Mr. Barrett will star it together. A really efficient support for this great part is the thing promised by the public. James O'Neill used to make a very acceptable "Michael Cassio" in the McCullough cast, and Kate Donahue was a better "Amelia" than has been seen hereabouts of late.

The Grimmers are even now working their way down the coast. The great attraction of their repertoire is Maria, with Phoebe Davies in the title role. As played at the beautiful theater, the Alhambra here, there were in the cast Geo. Webster, Stockwell, Mordant, and others who made the cast a very strong one. It seems to me the best thing I have yet seen the Grimmers in. They reach Los Angeles some time in April.

THE SMALLPOX SCARE.

All is being made of this unwelcome visitor to your city that printer's ink can conjure out of thin air. There is a column article in the Chronicle to-day on the subject, in which the biographical sketch of the "necromancer" of vaccine matter made by a druggist of this city to go to Southern California. Of course, all that can be inferred from the fact is what all who read newspapers know—that the disaster exists in that part of the State, and that the vaccination of the people as a means of staying its progress is very general. The practice of vaccination on so large a scale must be most reassuring to those who think about the matter. The members of the State Board of Health from this city, who are now in Los Angeles, are of the notion that the full truth has been concealed in these premises. It is well they are with you, as doubtless a full investigation of the facts is sure to prove to them that the truth has not been held back.

And by the way, the papers here make much parade of their fairness of spirit towards Los Angeles. Well, of course, most of them draw more or less business from that section, and the prudency of business considerations preclude their "scooping" you very much. But they all enjoy a little dig, or a quiet joke at your expense. The chap who writes for the Sunday Chronicle a column of alleged funny stuff, and who says that the imagination for his facts, and on his memory for his wit, is one of those who like to get a slap at the southern end of the State. Los Angeles is, of course, the exponent of that section, and most of his abortive wit is leveled at her.

PERSONAL MATTERS.

Among the Angelesans one encounters on the street, are Governor R. F. Porter, of San Fernando, who was here last week on a flying visit. The great Governor looked well, but was in some hurry to get back to the sunny south. Governor Minner, of Colton, was here, too, not exactly triste at being condemned to spend a short space around the corner of Montgomery and California streets, but still with "A longing, lingering look behind" him to the Indianapolis of the Pacific. General John R. Matthews is in this city, having come in Saturday from a business trip up the coast from San Pedro. He was ten days on the road, and he reports the coast country in a flourishing condition.

Mr. W. S. Maxwell has been here for a week. He is one of the most contented of the Angeles Colony who has to "Absent himself from felicity a while."

Among those whom I met at the park to-day was Abe Norton, a whilom Angelesan of the city, and who has been a stack of the mint. Abe looks well, as if his exile agreed with him. He was much interested in such scraps of Angeles news as I could cull from my dull brains to tell him during an hour or so of waiting for the music. He did not later than the time to either the strains from the band, nor to the stories from the orange groves. His eye wandered often to rest in admiration on a pretty face and shapely figure in the crowd. These figures all wore dresses instead of the usual Sunday dress. Mrs. Norton was at home, and Abe's son is still too young, in spite of inherited precocity, to notice. I used to do such pleasant sins myself, but I have reformed—not from old age, as I am not quite 60 yet.

Mr. Ernest Cox, your real estate man, was also at the park. He kept his eyes under great control in the presence of so much dazzling beauty as the Bay City is capable of pouring forth of a Sunday afternoon. I do not think it was just a simple matter to Cox's part. Mrs. Cox was by his side. And here I must explain again. She kept his chaste eyes at home, not from fear of a curtain lecture. The lady fears no rival, however beautiful.

Mr. W. H. Holmes, your real estate man, was in the city last week. He has the same idea of real estate all Angeles goes by a visit here. He thinks Los Angeles is still a place to make big fortunes.

Our friend Galloway, the Searcher of Records, who has been some months ago, to have a specialist of some sort prescribe for his throat, is getting well quite rapidly. He hopes soon to return to his home and resume business.

There are a great many others here from your city, but when one has nothing to do he usually does it much more diligently than he ever attends to more serious matters. At least I find this the case, and glad as I am to run across an acquaintance on the street, some thing soon effaces the memory of the meeting, and his name is not in the next morning's paper.

LOOKER-ON IN VIENNA.

San Francisco, March 15, 1887.

P. S. I wrote the above last night. To-day, for the fiftieth time, I saw the sheets of the ILLUSTRATED HERALD. The publication is now nearly ready to ship to you. It will eclipse in all respects the superb ILLUSTRATED HERALD of former years.

By the way, the papers to-day here are all full of the smallpox scare in Los Angeles. I obtained the data myself for you, Mr. Editor, and it was full and accurate. The telegrams setting forth their impression will do good. The Chronicle has interviews with Judge Ross, Harry Gage, Dan McFarland and others. They are in the right direction. Mr. McFarland makes one erroneous statement. He says the Los Angeles papers have suppressed the facts. I know this is not correct. Three weeks ago the HERALD had a full and complete statement of the situation at that date. I obtained the data myself for you, Mr. Editor, and it was full and accurate. WEALTH OF CALIFORNIA.

Colton Marble Mountain Yielding Up Its Treasures.

All those intelligent prospectors who investigate the apparently waste places of Southern California are surprised at the hidden wealth which can be found in the most barren and forbidding localities. Barren and bleak rocks on which vegetation has never grown since the ages of the oldest traditions have proved to be scamed and interpenetrated with a vast wealth of gold, silver and other metals of great commercial value.

A notable instance of this fact is seen in the well-known Slover mountain, in Colton, San Bernardino county. That apparently useless protuberance on the surface of the earth, where only the robust artemisia and the heather in a diminutive form can be seen in the clefts of its rocks, which form a home for the swift-gliding lizard and the lurking centipede, used to be looked upon as a nuisance on the face of the earth, and the old Californians hoped that some kind earthquake would swallow it and leave its place for raising watermelons and oh le Colorado.

But the swift-flying wheels of time have wrought a wonderful transformation. These rude, unproductive rocks, that seemed to remain to reflect the burning sunshine and intensify the heat of the air, bind the sight of the traveler and stand as a defiance to human energy, have been made to yield to the force of the human mind, and submit to the will and enhance the wealth of mankind. An examination of these monstrous, defiant rocks, shows that they consist of crystallized limestone of rare pure quality, and of various shades of color, besides a vein of fine marble for sculpture.

By the politeness and favor of the Colton Marble Line Company a representative of the HERALD was permitted to examine the works of this great corporation, on the south side of Slover mountain. Guided by Mr. W. S. Wilson, Superintendent of the works, and Messrs. O. T. and L. L. Dyer, of the directory of the company, he was shown all works of the company, which are immense and very interesting.

The corporation is presided over by Mr. W. H. Wright, President, with Mr. Wilson as Secretary.

But all the stockholders seem to be actively engaged in developing the vast wealth of this rugged and opulent mountain. The rock is a shining, crystallized limestone, mainly white, but with veins of gray, green, and black, making a beautiful marble that takes an excellent polish. The rock has been given by some great catalysis of nature into immense masses of rectangular shape, so that the work of quarrying is made easy, and the long parallelepipedons are easily split into slabs or shafts of any required size or length for architectural or monumental purposes without the use of powder.

Powder is used to dislodge the ledges on the mountain side and send the great mass down and out where they can be wrought into all needed purposes, for window-sills, caps, door trimmings, vestibules, mausoleums, monuments, sidewalks and other purposes.

The white rock is freely used in the manufacture of lime of a very superior quality. The company erected its first perpetual kiln three years ago, and has kept it in a continual glow ever since, turning out about fifty-five barrels daily of the whitest and purest of lime. A large vat, put up last year, is massive and complete. From its fiery heart, from hour to hour, comes forth great glowing masses of molten rock, before which no mortal can stand except with hood and goggles fastened over his mouth, to prevent the inhalation of the burning air. This kiln turns out from sixty to ninety barrels per day.

In addition to this production the company is now erecting two large kilns that will turn out 200 barrels per day, making 300 barrels daily, worth $600. This will make an income of $210,000 annually from a piece of earth that was a few years ago not worth assessing for taxation. In fact, it had no commercial value.

East of these great factories the company has opened four great quarries of beautiful marble of almost every hue, in which the supply is good for a million years. The California Southern Railroad Company will lay a track from Colton around the south side of the mountain, just below the quarries and kilns, so that cars can be loaded by sliding the stone and lime down an inclined plane with no use of team or lifting machinery. It is now contemplated to erect a large marble hotel on the tower of the mountain. Such a mass of lime and marble on a mountain side, so easy of access, is not recorded in industrial history. Its value would make arithmetic weary to calculate, and insure a permanent business for Colton and its railway lines for ages to come.

The Western Settlers' Chosen Specific.

With every advance of civilization from the West a new demand is created for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Newly peopled regions are frequently less salubrious than older settled localities, on account of the malaria which rises from recently cleared land, particularly along the banks of rivers and subject to malarial fevers. The result is a general ailment, which is not only a nuisance, but it does not already know, that the Bitters afford the only sure protection against malaria, and the disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels to which climate changes, exposure and unaccustomed or unhealthy water diet subject him. Consequently, he places an estimate upon this great household specific and preventive commensurate with its intrinsic merits, and is careful to keep on hand a restorative and promoter of health so innocently to be relied upon in time of need.

MEDICAL INHALATION

Combined with Constitutional Remedies.

OUR TREATMENT OF THE DISEASES

of the respiratory organs is based upon the employment of Medical Inhalation for its direct effects on the diseased organs; and, at the same time, adopting such hygienic measures and administering such medicines by the stomach as will most effectively purify the blood, give tone to the nervous system, and build up and strengthen the general system.

What is Medical Inhalation? Before stating briefly what Medical Inhalation is, we propose, in as few words as possible, to state clearly what it is not.

Medical Inhalation is not a cure-all, a nostrum, or a panacea. It is not a specific remedy for any disease. It is not a quick medicine, or advertised to cure any or all the ills that flesh is heir to; it is intended to do the positive, and it is not a talisman, whose possession insures health to its possessor without the intervention of sense or judgment. Medical Inhalation is none of these things.

Medical Inhalation is simply and solely a method of taking medicine by inhaling, breathing them into the lungs instead of swallowing them into the stomach. By Inhalation, the proper medicines are applied directly to the seat of the disease, in the nose, throat or lungs; and it is in fact, a method of administering medicine to the diseased organs, in the most direct and powerful manner. On the contrary, you apply it directly to the seat of the wound or injury. Why, then, the proper and direct way to reach the diseased surfaces of the respiratory system, is by the way of the mouth. Physiology teaches us that the membrane, or skin, lining the air-passages of the nose, throat and lungs, is a highly sensitive, and the structure as that which covers the external surface of the body. The mucous membrane, which lines the interior of the body, is the correct and rational method of treatment? Who, on the other hand, can be so irrational as to believe that the proper and direct way to reach the diseased surfaces of the respiratory system, is by the way of the mouth. Physiology teaches us that the membrane, or skin, lining the air-passages of the nose, throat and lungs, is a highly sensitive, and the structure as that which covers the external surface of the body. The mucous membrane, which lines the interior of the body, is the correct and rational method of treatment? Who, on the other hand, can be so irrational as to believe that the proper and direct way to reach the diseased surfaces of the respiratory system, is by the way of the mouth.

Our experience and success in treating diseases of the respiratory organs, demonstrates, beyond all question, that the scientific treatment of these diseases is by the use of the inhalation of the local effects of medicinal inhalation with the constitutional effects of systematic remedies, given in the usual manner.

One of the best methods must be adopted as the circumstances demand, and such remedy must be employed as the experience and judgment of the physician have proved to be proper in each particular case.

Medical Inhalation.
Physicians who were educated twenty years ago or more, and who have not kept up with the times in the advance in medicine, have very little idea of the great importance all leading writers now give to Medical Inhalation in the treatment of the diseases of the respiratory organs.

It is a pleasure to take the true that no patient should intrust his case to any physician who is not well posted in the progress of medicine with everything necessary for the administering of the proper remedies by the method of inhalation.

The numerous cases effected by inhalation in cases seeking relief, all help, and the uniform success attending its use in diseases of the respiratory organs, render it obligatory on every physician to acquire a knowledge of the inhalation, or if that is not possible, at least to be able to decline to treat such cases.

Among the most eminent physicians of the age who have fully recognized the value of Medical Inhalation in these diseases are the following:

The celebrated Dr. Burdon-Sanderson; Dr. La Roche, of the Paris Academy of Medicine; Dr. Frederick Langhans; Dr. Archibald Dickson, of Edinburgh, Scotland; Dr. Richter, Dr. Cameron, Dr. Gordon, Dr. Hughes, Dr. Jackson, Dr. Robinson, Dr. Fickson, Dr. Thierfelder, Dr. Spencer, Dr. Wells, Dr. Hutton, Dr. G. P. Wood, Dr. Dietrich and Hittig, Dr. Fogelberg, Dr. Richard Thompson, Dr. C. C. DeWitt, Dr. Andrie, Dr. Fuller, Dr. Lancereux, Dr. Krauss, Dr. Huguette, Dr. Heller, Dr. Corrigan, Dr. Fenwick, and many others.

With scarcely a single exception every medical authority of eminence recognizes the wonderful potency of the method of Medical Inhalation, and the coming generation of physicians are certain to be thoroughly educated therein. At present there is only a few physicians here and there who have made "Diseases of Respiration" a life study; they are fitted in any way to employ the wonderful resources of Medical Inhalation in the cure of these diseases.

The Curability of Consumption.
The year 1886 the celebrated Dr. I. H. Bennett was pathologist to the Royal Army of Edinburgh, and in his great work on "Consumption" he makes the following statement:

"During this period I made upwards of 2000 post-mortem examinations of persons dying from various diseases, and I was constantly meeting with cases in which I constantly found the lungs in a state of consumption, which had evidently healed up or organized years before the death of the subject. Nature did not seem to have been successful in restoring the wasted lung substance, but the cavities were dried up, and the subject lived for years, with diminished lung power it is true, but otherwise in good health."

DAILY HERALD.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

Appropriately Observed in Los Angeles

A VERY CREDITABLE PARADE.

Exercises at Turner Hall—Address of President Daly—Orator of S. F. Spencer.

The time-honored custom of observing the natal day of the Patron Saint of Ireland was not neglected in this city yesterday. Nearly everybody on the street displayed the dear little, sweet little Shamrock, or a bit of green ribbon. The Ancient Order of Hibernians turned out in a parade and made a magnificent display. Fred Dohs' City Band led the procession and discouraged many of those who are so dear to the heart of an Irishman.

At 3 o'clock the exercises were held in Turner Hall. There was a large crowd in attendance and everything passed off in the most delightful manner. The hall was festooned with evergreens and the colors of Ireland were displayed on every side. On the handsomely decorated stage were Messrs. John Moriarty, John O'Neil, S. F. Spencer, Fathers Smith and Hall, Mr. Ed. Roach, M. McMahon, C. Hixson, H. F. Sheridan, Dan and Josie Sullivan and others.

Mr. J. C. Daly, President of the Day, called the audience to order and made a brief opening address. He said: "The custom of observing St. Patrick's Day is not a new one, but has existed for years. There may be little significance attached to it in Los Angeles, but from pole to pole voices cry out for the freedom of Ireland. This poor down-trodden country has never ceased to oppose the oppression of England. She is today raising her shackled hands and imploring the people of the world to assist in releasing her from her thralldom. The treatment of Ireland is a burning, crying shame and the time has come when all assistance should be rendered her by American Irishmen. The past is behind us and this is not the time when the sons of Irishmen should weep over the woes and wrongs of the oppressed country or pore over the blood-stained pages of history, but they should rouse themselves and prepare to do battle for the down-trodden nation." The speaker said: "Three years ago I was not in favor of dynamite. I thought it was not policy. To-day in the light of the Queen's speech delivered from the throne of England, in which she says that Ireland must be freed, I say, let slip the dogs of war. France, Russia and Germany are spending millions to prepare for war, and if the expression of the Queen is to be the policy of England, I say let Irish money, brains and arms, in America be devoted to the amelioration of the condition of the finest and noblest of this earth—Ireland. America threw off the yoke of dependence and fought for her liberty, and Ireland should do the same. The Irish-Americans will aid her by every means in their power. The Irish should blot out England, if it is necessary to protect themselves."

Mr. Daly was frequently interrupted by the applause of his audience. At the conclusion of his remarks he introduced Mrs. Josie Sullivan, who sang the "Dear Little Shamrock," and on whose song a melody of Irish air which was a thrill through the whole audience. Mr. Geo. D. Kerwin also sang several patriotic airs which were well received. The President then introduced the orator of the day, whose remarks are given below:

ORATOR OF S. F. SPENCER.

Upon the eve of the great feast of Shamrock, more than twenty centuries ago, the lingering rays of the declining sun lit up a scene of most unworldly splendor. Most beautiful and imposing that day was the aspect of the royal hall of Tara, for Leary, the monarch of Erin, was celebrating with royal magnificence the anniversary of his birth. From afar and near the magnates and princes of the land had assembled, with all the glitter of pomp and pride, to do him honor, and at the sunset hour the great banquet hall of Tara was thronged with noisy revelers, from the King surrounded by his princely and Druid priests to freemen of the lowest rank.

In the height of their boisterous mirth a sudden hush fell upon the noisy throng, followed by low and ominous murmurs, then a wild tumult of rage, for far away upon the heights of Tara a daring hand had kindled a fire that blazed brightly in the distance, an insult to their gods and a defiance to themselves. The guards hastened to secure the offender. An hundred hands were felt for the ready spear and an hundred hands decreed his death without waiting to hear his defense. The messengers returned, and in their midst stood a man alone, unarmed and defenseless before the vast assemblage; of a fearless aspect and dignified with a spirit undaunted he faced the lowering brows and flashing eyes of his angered captors. In reply to their indignant questions, like one inspired, he pleaded his master's cause eloquently and well. As Paul on Malta, he said, "I am a Roman, stand this undaunted missionary among the Druid priests and Pagan gringos, alone upon the hill of Tara. Needless is it for me to speak his name; needless for me to sound his praises. On this day ever near to the hour of our patron saint, we meet to render loving homage to his hallowed name and to weave the garlands of affection around his sacred urn. Wherever the true son of Erin breathes the air of heaven to-day, whether upon Australian sheep-farms or in his own loved 'Tale of Beauty,' whether in the snowy climes of the Northland, or in the sunny land of the South, all will do reverence to the glorious memory of Ireland's great apostle; and blended, too, with these sacred recollections will be the memories of his native land, her lakes and fells, her low-thatched cottages, her glories and her misfortunes. I hope that on this day, hallowed as it is to the heart of every true Irishman, I may be pardoned if I speak some of the sentiments of my kind—sentiments which have been woven into my very existence, and which I will carry with me to my grave. I hope I may not err if I speak some of the past misfortunes of Ireland and build up some hopes for her future. I have no respect for that man, or that class of men who can contemplate the woe of Ireland and not have a word of commiseration for the sorrows of her people. The man who can do it does not deserve to be regarded as human. He should be sent back to nature's mist and released as a contemptible on humanity of nature's lower mail. It is not necessary now that I should go back to the time when the whole people of Ireland were flung back upon the soil into the clutches of landlord slavery, nor that I should recall that dreary hour when that tale of beauty, 'the first flower of the earth,' was turned into a graveyard—a graveyard from whence there went out in countless numbers the emigrant vessels, crowding all the ocean passages like pale specters fleeing from a nation's charnel-house. It is not necessary that you go back and stand upon the docks of Ireland in the crucifixion of her exile, as her children bade farewell to the scene, followed by a thousand memories, of all that was near and dear, looking with tear-dimmed eyes upon their humble homes, upon their mountain crags, or gazing wistfully upon the Lakes of Killarney, where bloom so many lovely lakes, like dimples upon the face of the water, and recalling the pathetic words of Moore:

"Sweet Innisfallen, fare thee well,
May calm and sunshine long be thine;
How fair thou art let others tell,
While but to thee now fair is mine.
Sweet Innisfallen, fare thee well,
And tomorrow light around thee smile,
As soft as that evening fell,
When last I saw thy lovely isle."

It is not necessary that imagination's pencil should paint the scene of parting and of sorrow. They are all stamped where they will remain forever—upon the living canvas of Irish hearts, and even at this distance of time, memories of the bitter cruelty crowding back upon the Irish mind will steep its buoyant spirits in a spell of mournful recollections. But never amid all her desolation have her loyal sons forgotten the faith of their fathers; never have they ceased to do homage to her patron saint; never have they forgotten the land of their birth, and may I have they ceased to hope for the future deliverance of their country. And though the gloom of night has long enveloped her lakes, her hills and her plains; though Gratian, Curran and O'Connell are dead, and dying bequeathed the legacy of their spotless memories to us all, though despair has almost settled over the island, "full many a time and oft," the morning light seems breaking at last through the clouds. The day seems near when she "shall take her place among the nations of the earth."

It is right that on this day, near and dear to every Irish heart, we should declare to the world that the virtue which gave to the patriotism of the departed heroes of Ireland its dazzling lustre is still alive. It still lives to preserve, to console, to sanctify humanity. It has its temple in every clime; but its altar is in every heart that loves the good and the true. In the beautiful words of Thomas Francis Meagher (of whom Brennan so beautifully said, "His bright, musical thoughts circled around his fallen country like spring birds around a ruin"): "By the soft, blue waters of Lake Lucerne stands the chapel of William Tell. On the anniversary of his revolt and victory, across those waters as they glitter in the July sun skim the light boats of the allied cantons. From the brows hang the banners of the republic, and as they near the sacred spot the daughters of Lucerne chant the hymns of their old poetic land. Then bursts forth the glad 'Te Deum,' and heaven hears again the voice of that wild chivalry of the mountains, which live centuries since pierced the white eagle of Vienna and flung it, bleeding on the rocks of Uri. At Lanspruck, in the black alle of the old cathedral, the peasant of the Tyrol kneels before the statue of Andreas Hofer. In that old cathedral his inspiring memory is recalled amid the splendor of the altar, his victories and his virtues are proclaimed in the songs of his people; and when the sun goes down a chain of fires—in the deep red light of which the eagle spreads his wings and holds his giddy revelry—proclaims the glory of the chief whose blood has made his native land a sainted spot in Europe."

It is this spirit which makes us venerate the names of the illustrious dead of Ireland, anointed by the blood of the great and good, and joining in this generation the true son of Erin, wherever he goes, the faith and duties of patriotism.

The world is learning at last that the cause of Ireland is just, for she asks but simple justice. In every clime and under every sky there is a class of men who view the public affairs of nations with an impartial and generous eye; a class whose sympathies prove the poet more of a philosopher than a dreamer when he said: "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin," a class whose hearts burn with indignation as intense, whether standing beneath the scaffold of Emmet, or kneeling above the grave of Marshal Ney; a class who feel for the oppressed of earth, whether the sigh of the Indian who wailed from the shores of the Indian Ocean, or heard in the clank of chains on the banks of the Danube, or comes from where Shannon's silvery floods give back those lovely Irish landscapes, whose beauty seems like vistas stretching from the very foothills of heaven, and under whose wings upon the memorable day, the world will look on and admire that zeal and devotion to a faith which the Irish people have nursed to their hearts for fourteen hundred years, and to which they will cling and cherish as long as rivers run to the sea. On the hills of Erin, to-day the poor tenant, looking upon the loved shackles growing by his humble cabin, speaks the name of his patron saint in reverence, and consoles his children with the story of his piety, his purity and his respect for his people. Saint Patrick's name beneath the green turf of the land he loved so well, and his memory is enshrined in the heart of every true son of Erin, a priceless heritage of which tyranny and oppression cannot rob him, nor envy and injustice ever destroy. And when another link shall have fallen from the golden chain of time into the fathomless abyss of eternity; when another year shall have passed, and we meet again to commemorate the glories of our patron saint, may we at the hour of rejoicing in the knowledge that Ireland is forever free from the chains of oppression, under which she has toiled for so many weary years; and may we also rejoice in the hope that day is not far distant when the harp and the burst shall proudly wave over the hills and vales of fair Erin, Erin forever unfettered and free. And hoping thus, we will to-day exclaim with Tom Moore, "Thus, Erin my country, though broken thou art,
There's a sister within thee that ne'er will decay;
A spirit in beams through each sufferer's part;
And now smiles at their pain on St. Patrick's Day."

The regular meeting of the above club was held last evening at their rooms, Mr. J. O. Maclean in the chair. A large number of new members were proposed and admitted. An effort is being made to start a library in connection with the club. The chairman offered to donate several volumes to it.
